Publication Contest

-Compiled by Shannon Bryant Wolfe-

Congratulations to all who participated in the Wrestling USA 2003 Publication Contest! We had 88 entries and many first time participants. We also had new top placers for both the high school and collegiate annuals. The University of Iowa has dominated the collegiate annual contest for many years. This year, however, Oklahoma State provided a first-class publication that gave them the upper hand over the University of Iowa. In the high school division we saw Mercersburg Academy of Pennsylvania step up to fill the gap that our four consecutive year champion, Monicello High School of Iowa, left by not publishing an annual this year.

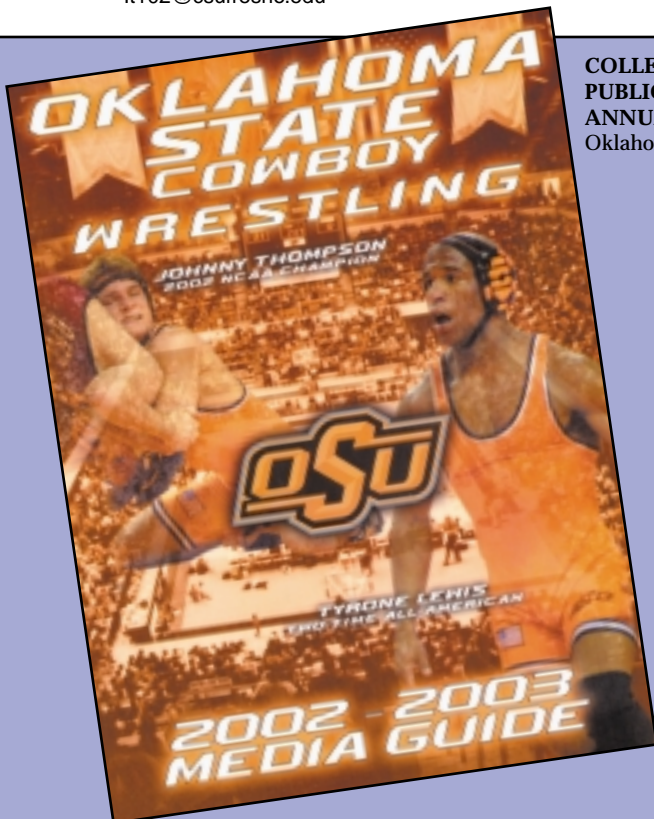

One particular category that I would like to applaud this year is the High School State Tournament Programs. We had 18 states send in their State Tournament Program. It is exciting to see the variety and creativity each state brings. Most of the top placers added special touches here and there. One of my favorite special touches were the programs that placed a picture of last year's champion next to the bracket for each weight class.

In the National Categories, two compliments must be given. When it comes to producing a tournament program, Jack Roller and Cliff Keen are the perfect pair! They captured the top five places with their outstanding publications. Someone else that also produced an outstanding publication was Mark Osgood. In his 414 page book, Ohio's Best in Amateur Wrestling Vol. 11, he not only takes a thorough look at Ohio wrestling from 1998-2002, but he includes a photo gallery that dates back to 1928.

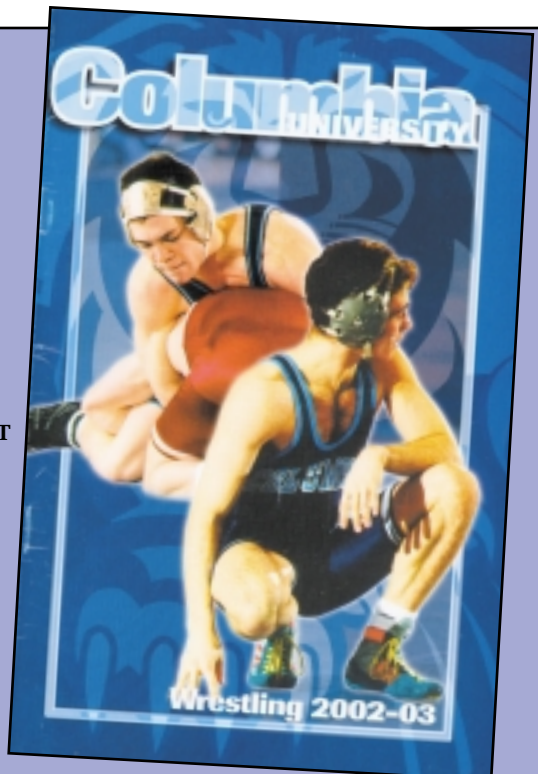

Much praise could be given about most of the entries this year, but I suggest that you examine the quality of the publications yourself, so I have provided e-mail addresses where available. If looking at the best of the best is too overwhelming for you, pick a competitor that finished a few places ahead of you to gain the insight you need to move up in the rankings in the 2004 Publication Contest. Until then, may you know that your tremendous efforts have been applauded and they do make a difference... so keep pressing on!
