MOUNTAINEERS SASSANO, LIVINGSTON AND OBREGON NAMED ALL-SOCON

BOONE, N.C. – For the second consecutive season, the Appalachian State men's soccer team earned three places on the all-SoCon team. Seniors Sean Sassano (Gastonia, N.C./Forestview) and McCoy Livingston (Charlotte, N.C./Providence) as well as junior Juan Obregon (Castle Rock, Colo./Douglas County) each earned second-team all-SoCon honors in 2007.

Sassano ears his first SoCon accolade after a breakout senior season. Sassano doubled his career goal total with five tallies and four assists to lead the Mountaineers with 14 points in 2007. The Gastonia, N.C. native has started all 18 matches thus far for the Apps.

Livingston followed up his SoCon all-tournament team nod with second-team all-SoCon honors in 2007. The Charlotte, N.C. native was the co-leader in goals for Appalachian with five goals in 16 matches.

Obregon backed up his 2006 SoCon all-tournament team performance with a stellar 2007 season. The Mountaineer junior scored four goals and notched two assists to pull in all-conference honors. With 11 career goals, Obregon looks to return as the Mountaineers top scoring threat in 2008.

The Mountaineers place three players on the all-conference team for the second consecutive year while regular season champion Furman leads the way with six selections. The Paladins also earn all three major awards. Elon, College of Charleston and UNC Greensboro each place three on the teams. Georgia Southern and Davidson each earned one selection.
