The Oregon, Ohio native was a four-time Three Rivers Athletic Conference champion for Clay High School, where he helped the Eagles win three TRAC titles as a team.

“Garret is a quality student-athlete who will make an immediate impact for us both on the wrestling mat, as well as in the classroom,” Kelly stated. “He is coming to Lourdes University come from an elite high school program here in Northwest Ohio, so his transition from high school to collegiate wrestling should be seamless. We expect him to challenge for a starting position immediately.”
