Extreme Hammer camp

July 8-15th.

This camp is for serious, year round type wrestlers, who are wanting more advanced details with hand fighting, set ups, scrambling defenses, scoring from the opponents collar tie, etc. Many great wrestlers are fundamentally sound, and are in need of a camp that is focused on advanced skills and skill development, as opposed to just the fundamentals of our sport. Often times the only option for this type of wrestler is a conditioning and running type of camp, which mixes in live wrestling. I'm a big fan of skill development, and am not a big fan of investing wrestling dollars into camps where the kids run all day (I think kids can run at home.)

good one, and aside from my leg riding camps it is my favorite camp to do, as I enjoy being able to work with kids who are able to grasp detailed skills.

More info is on www.tonypurler.com.

I currently have 24 former purler wrestlers who are in college on scholarship. And kids like this, who have high aspirations, are the kind of kids that would do well in this camp. Any kids that are proficient at core leg attacks, who can move their hands and feet, etc, would do well at this camp and have a great time as well.
